Powers' Guilty Plea "Normal", Wife Believes

Hopes To See Husband Before Trial

MOSCOW (AP) — U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers' wife Barbara—dubbed by the staff at her hotel here "the lady who never smiles"—said Sunday she thought it normal for him to plead guilty to Soviet spy charges.

"He was the pilot of the plane," the black-clad Georgia girl told a news conference. "That's a matter of record. So when he pleaded guilty that was normal. What else could he plead?"

Her soft voice seemed about to break as she said: "I'm here to do everything I can to help my husband. It's my husband, my life and our future."

She said she had as yet no word whether she would be able to see Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to make a personal appeal for aid.

Also, she said she still hoped she could see her husband before his espionage trial opens Wednesday despite a Soviet note to the American Embassy saying no one would be permitted to do so.

Mrs. Powers, accompanied by her lawyer, Alexander Parker of Richmond, Va., met newsmen in the white marble third-floor lobby of the Sovetskaya Hotel. A huge bust of Stalin dominated the corner of the room where she sat in a black leather armchair.

She had just returned from a conference with Minister-Counselor Edward L. Freers at the American Embassy.

The pilot's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver W. Powers of Pound, Va., also talked with Freers during the day. They all were making an effort to coordinate their attempts to see the imprisoned flier, to attend his trial and to talk with Khrushchev.

Barbara Powers said sadly, but without bitterness, that even after her embassy talks. "I still feel the State Department could be doing a little more. But I appreciate everything they have been able to do."

The conference was televised for American networks and the young wife was bombarded by still photographers, too. There were no Soviet newsmen present. The Soviet press has not yet mentioned the arrival of the Powers family in Moscow.

Mrs. Powers repeated her belief it was unfair to call her husband a spy.

"I look upon him as a reconnaissance scout," she said spiritedly. "And he shouldn't be labeled a spy. He never disguised; he never pretended to be what he wasn't."

Powers was shot down over Sverdlovsk in the central U.S.S.R. last May 1.

Mrs. Powers, a striking brunette, said, "Of course I am very upset." But after a night's sleep, she looked rested in contrast to her weary appearance when she arrived Saturday night.

She is an object of much curiosity to the Russian staff, who have read so much about her husband's activities. They go far out of their way to treat her with courtesy and consideration. The same care is being extended to Powers' parents, who also had recovered remarkably from the effect of their transatlantic flight.

U.N. Troops Go On Duty In Katanga

Belgians, Tshombe Cheered By Crowds; Premier Snubs Dag

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Belgian troops Sunday handed over guard duty in this rebellious provincial capital to United Nations troops before crowds that had cheered only for the Belgians and Katanga Premier Moise Tshombe.

It was a hectic day, exposing the divided loyalties in Elisabethville. Earlier, a friendly crowd was driven from U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's temporary residence by Katanga police using tear gas and clubs. Hammarskjöld was inside at the time and the curious crowd was made up mostly of Katangans who have demonstrated for him and against Tshombe.

Having completed arrangements for bringing the first U.N. troops into Katanga, Hammarskjöld got what seemed to be a cool brush-off from Tshombe at the airport before he left. Tshombe, who finally agreed without enthusiasm to let U.N. troops into Katanga, kept the U.N. troubleshooter waiting for nearly half an hour before appearing.

Hundreds Watch Ceremony
Hundreds of Belgians and Africans watched as Gen. Roger A. Gheysen, Belgian military commander in Katanga, transferred his responsibilities in Elisabethville to Gen. Carl von Horn of Sweden, U.N. commander in the Congo.

The crowds shouted, "Vive l'armee," as Gheysen arrived for the formal ceremony at the Place de l'Etoile, the city's main square. There were more shouts of "Vive Tshombe" as the Premier appeared. It seemed mostly Belgians were shouting for this Negro leader who has proclaimed his province independent of the Congo government at Leopoldville.

Many wept as Belgian soldiers laid a wreath at the cenotaph in honor of Belgium's dead in two world wars—the Belgians' parting gesture to Elisabethville.

There were no cheers for the U.N. commander and the Swedish military units when they took over from Gheysen. The crowd stood silent throughout this part of the ceremony.

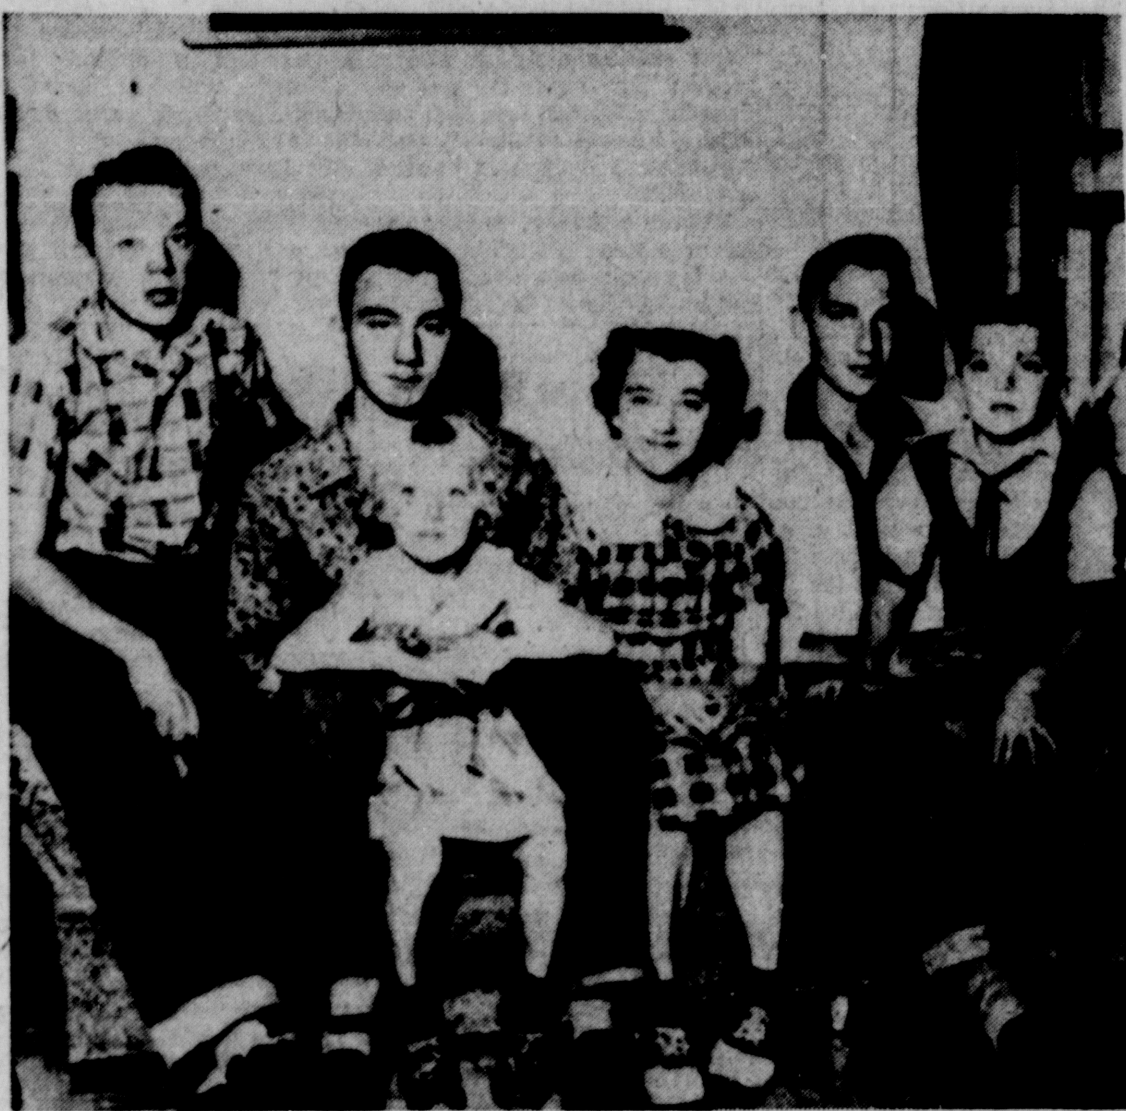

It was a far different crowd that assembled in front of Hammarskjöld's residence. Most were members of the Cartel party, bitterly opposed to Tshombe's separatist movement.

Tshombe Snubs Dag
Police told the crowd to move on, then threw four tear gas bombs. One bounced on the lawn of the residence. Police followed up by pushing the people away with their clubs.

Hammarskjöld, who Saturday completed his ticklish job of arranging for U.N. troops to enter Katanga, left Elisabethville after what appeared to be a snub by Tshombe.

Tshombe showed up 25 minutes late at the airport and without apologizing told Hammarskjöld: "I am glad to be able to see you off. Bon voyage. We hope to see you again."

Tshombe once vowed to block by force any attempt by U.N. troops to enter his province. He reluctantly agreed to let them in on the strict condition that no agent of his arch foe, Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba, come in with them.

Cubans Seize Big Moa Bay Mining Plant

HAVANA (AP)—The Cuban government announced Sunday it has taken over control of the Moa Bay Mining Co., an American-owned, 75-million-dollar nickel and cobalt plant in eastern Cuba.

The disclosure of government intervention was made during a TV address by President Osvaldo Dorticos. It was later learned that armed militiamen had moved into the closed plant some time ago.

The announcement, which followed by a week the creation of a National Mining Institute, raised fears in private business circles here over the fate of about 75 million dollars worth of other American mining properties.

Among them are the U.S. government-owned Nicaoro nickel plant. Representatives of the U.S. General Services Administration and the regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro have been discussing sale of the plant to Cuba.

Moa Bay, a subsidiary of Freeport Sulphur Co., discontinued operations last March as a result of a new government mining law that sharply restricted its operations and placed a heavy export tax on minerals.

Dorticos gave no reason for the intervention, which can range from token supervision to outright control.

It was assumed, however, the government will declare the step was taken to protect Moa workers' jobs, claiming management abandoned the plant. This has been the usual claim preceding intervention of other business operations.

The intervention announcement came only a week after a government decree nationalizing more than 700 million dollars worth of other American-owned properties.

Moa Bay is the largest privately owned mining enterprise in Cuba. Started in 1957, it was not fully completed last March when company officials announced they could not continue operations because of government restrictions.

Still untouched by the government are nearly 300 million dollars worth of American investments. These include an estimated 15 million in insurance, pharmaceutical, rubber and aluminum companies, about 75 million in mining, and 50 million in banks and airlines.

'Sleeping Beauties' Mystery Is Solved; Drugged By Mother

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Why would a mother give sleeping drugs to two of her young daughters?

Detectives who said they had such an admission from the mother of this city's "sleeping beauties" tried to reach a full answer to the puzzle Sunday.

The girls are dark-eyed Bernadette, 3, and Venita Fratantonio, 5, now playing in natural health and liveliness at Mt. Sinai Hospital.

The mother is Mrs. Vincent Fratantonio, 29, a dentist's daughter who is married to a shipping clerk. Last week she gave birth to her fifth child and third daughter.

She is in St. Ann Hospital with a policeman near at all times. Detectives described it as a sort of protective custody.

Sgt. Norman Ferris says the mother admitted Saturday night that she began giving barbiturates to Bernadette last September, and to Venita last month. Physicians had been baffled over why the girls would slump into a coma at unexplained intervals and for varying periods.

Their two brothers, Joseph, 7, and James, 4, never showed any of the odd symptoms. When blood tests early last week showed traces of barbiturates in the bloodstreams of Bernadette and Venita, they were made wards of Juvenile Court, in the custody of Mt. Sinai. Saturday night another court order placed the new baby in the custody of the nurses at St. Ann.

Ferris said the mother declares at times that she does not know why she gave the drugs. At other times, he said, her reason for giving them to Bernadette was that the child was too lively and she wanted to calm her down.

As for Venita, she made vague references to the child's bed-wetting tendencies, the detective said.

Doctors said the fact that the children had been given barbiturates was not discovered earlier because that angle had not been checked.

Dr. Samuel R. Gerber, the coroner whose office conducted the blood tests, told a newsman "this is not in my estimation a criminal case. It is strictly a mental case. I think she can be saved."

Dr. Gerber said it was difficult to piece together the processes which led to the long series of events, but that "it was logical in the beginning. This little girl (Bernadette) could have been hard to handle and almost impossible to cope with."

After the drugs had been administered a few times, he said, Bernadette might have slept too long, thus arousing the whole family's concern. Once medical aid had been called in, the mother could have found herself in a repetitious cycle in which she "was outmaneuvering the best medical minds," he continued.

"She got herself into the pattern of this thing and could not help herself."

Monday there will be a conference among police and officials of city and county courts to determine what, if any, charges are to be filed, and in what court. A Juvenile Court hearing on the wardship for the three girls is scheduled for Friday.

Song Bounced Off Satellite

HOLMDEL, N. J. (AP) — The strains of "America the Beautiful" resounded from coast-to-coast off the shimmering Echo satellite balloon in a three-station hookup Sunday.

Scientists participating in Project Echo reported more progress in the broadening field of communications via satellite, a spokesman said.

The advances included the longest and clearest two-way live conversation between the scientists at the Bell Telephone Laboratories here and at the Jet Propulsion Laboratories in Goldstone, Calif.

The talk, between project engineers William C. Jakes in New Jersey and Phil Tardoni in California, lasted eight minutes and was very clear, it was reported.

In another experiment the two stations cooperated with the naval research laboratory at Stump Neck, Md. The voice of a Maryland scientist bounced off the satellite to Holmdel and was hurled back aloft for a second bounce to California.

The double bounce showed, a spokesman said, how telephone or live television signals could be sent from California to New Jersey via one satellite and then relayed to Western Europe via another if they were more satellites.

Engineers envisioned a series of about 50 satellites providing worldwide communications.

The first launching of such a satellite came Friday with Echo 1, a 10-story-high balloon with a shiny aluminum surface that acts as a mirror for radio waves.

Two Die When Plane Crashes On Pa. Farm

FRANKLIN, Pa. (AP) — Two Minneapolis, Minn., men flying in a private plane were killed Sunday when the four-seater craft crashed and exploded on a farm four miles from this northwestern Pennsylvania community.

Dr. M. C. Dinberg, coroner of Venango County identified the victims as Abraham H. Davis, 34, and Charles F. Peckham, 27.

Cold August In Paris

PARIS (AP) — Paris is having its coldest August in 58 years. Adding to the woe of one of the wettest summers in years, cold north winds are bringing a touch of autumn to what should be the hottest month. The temperature dropped to 48 degrees Saturday. More rain and cold winds are forecast this week.

Tot Rescued From Filthy Cell In Home

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — Sheriff's deputies hammered down two doors Saturday to free a 4-year-old boy they said was locked in a cell-like stairwell with a T-shirt for clothing, a pile of rags for a bed and a pan of milk for food.

They jailed the child's father, Rudolph Escamilla, 29, on a charge of child neglect. They charged the mother, Paula, 29, with child neglect but sent her home to look after her three daughters.

The mother intimated the boy was retarded.

The deputies answered a call from neighbors who said they heard strange cries coming from the two-story frame house.

When no one responded to knocking, they battered down the locked front door and then they heard sobbing coming from a locked stairwell enclosure. They battered down another door and found Anthony Escamilla, clad only in a T-shirt, in the narrow stairwell.

The only light in the room, deputies said, came from a narrow window at the top of the stairs. The door at the top of the stairs also was locked.

The child was sitting on a pile of rags, they said, with a pan of milk that apparently had been slipped to him through a chink in the door. The area was littered with filth.

Demo Hope, Mrs. FDR Make Peace

Nominee Demands Senate Rewrite Medical Aid Plan

HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP)—Democratic presidential nominee John F. Kennedy made political peace Sunday with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt but declared political war on a new Senate version of a medical aid program for the elderly.

The Massachusetts senator flew to the Hudson Valley to call on the widow of the late chief executive who signed the Social Security law 25 years ago.

He had a double purpose.

Mrs. Roosevelt had wanted Adlai E. Stevenson to get the Democratic presidential nomination and had suggested Kennedy needed to learn and grow. So the senator wanted to do a bit of political fence-mending in his party. And he said that "yes, we had a very nice lunch," in response to a question whether his meeting with Mrs. Roosevelt was satisfactory.

He said that he "asked for her help and she said that she would help."

Then, too, the senator came here to speak in ceremonies on the grounds of the Franklin D. Roosevelt estate in commemoration of the venture of government into a vast new field of help for the people a quarter-century ago.

Medical Plan "Inadequate"

From a stand beneath the towering elms and maples in front of the stucco and stone mansion where Roosevelt was born, Kennedy ripped into the medical care bill approved Saturday by the Senate Finance Committee in Washington. He called it unsatisfactory and added: "It must be rewritten on the floor of the Senate before the Senate goes home. This Congress should not adjourn before it enacts a comprehensive, adequate plan to meet medical needs."

Some 2,500 persons, clustered on the lawn on the heights above the Hudson River, broke into cheers and heavy applause. Most were members of the Council of Golden Ring Clubs, an organization of older citizens.

Mrs. Roosevelt was supposed to have taken part, too, but as Kennedy said, "This is a sad and somber day in the lives of Mrs. Roosevelt and her family" because of the death of a granddaughter who was being buried here during the afternoon.

So the former First Lady canceled her appearance and Kennedy made his own way around the Roosevelt mansion into the hemlock-bordered rose garden where the former president is buried and into the nearby museum housing Roosevelt papers and mementoes.

Eight-Point Program

Kennedy told the audience "there is no responsibility more incumbent on us" than to finish the welfare plan Roosevelt began.

Kennedy had laid down in a prepared text an eight-point expanded Social Security program beginning with a call for a medical aid plan for older citizens that would be soundly financed and lacking a "destructive, degrading means test," and based on both the tried and tested operation of the Social Security system.

This was the approach the Senate Finance Committee rejected. Instead, it approved a plan calling for joint federal-state participation and financing.

Kennedy skipped whole paragraphs in his text, including the last three of his eight points. These three dealt with reducing the number of people who must depend on charity, expanding research into chronic illnesses, and doing more for widows and children.

Laotian Rebels Seek Approval Of Government

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The rebels decided Sunday to fly emissaries to King Savang Vathana to notify him the National Assembly voted to dissolve Premier Tiao Somsanth's pro-Western government.

At the same time, the King will be asked to approve rebel-backed Prince Souvanna Phouma, a moderate who arranged the 1957 truce with the Communist guerrillas, as the next premier.

So the issue of a quick peace or possible civil war was checked to the King at his royal seat of Luang Prabang, 140 miles northwest of Vientiane. Somsanth and his government have been in Luang Prabang since the rebel uprising in Vientiane Tuesday.

It was by no means certain the King, a keen student of Laotian history, will accept the Assembly vote as an expression of national sentiment. Nor is it known whether he will agree to Prince Souvanna Phouma as the next premier. The prince was premier from 1951 to 1954.

The prince, now president of the National Assembly, confirmed the Assembly majority voted no confidence in Somsanth's government at an emergency session Saturday night.

Somsanth, who took the Asian kingdom away from neutralism to a policy of close association with the United States, became premier last May with the solid backing of this same Assembly. The rebels want to make Laos neutral in the cold war.

Failure to reach agreement on a new government presumably would be followed by government attempts to retake the capital with royal forces from Souvanna Phouma and Pakse, in the south, and Luang Prabang, in the north.

Education Bill May Need Nixon-Rayburn Alliance

WASHINGTON (AP)—A strange alliance between Vice President Richard M. Nixon and House Speaker Sam Rayburn, Texas Democrat, appeared likely Sunday to be needed to produce an aid-to-education bill in Congress.

Nixon, the GOP presidential nominee, and Rayburn, who supports the Kennedy-Johnson ticket, may have to use their combined persuasive powers to break a House log jam which has bottled up varying versions passed by the Senate and House.

The House, which took a week longer vacation than the Senate, resumes its sessions Monday although it is not really expected to get down to work until a week from Monday.

Democrats and Republicans want an aid-to-education measure in some form and President Eisenhower is reported in a mood to accept a compromise bill.

But a coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats on the House Rules Committee thus far have prevented any action to send the various measures to a Senate-House conference committee.

That's where Rayburn and Nixon come in. Between them they have to get the majority vote needed to break the stalemate.

All the committee Republicans have opposed action on the measure and Nixon apparently will have to change the mind of at least one of them to get a bill started on its way.

Rayburn has the delicate job of convincing Chairman Howard Smith (D-Va.) that he ought to let the matter come to a showdown in time for handling in the abbreviated Congress session. Smith, who opposes the measures, sometimes is a difficult man to convince.

Typhoon Leaves At Least 18 Dead

TOKYO (AP)—Torrential rains accompanying and following Typhoon Wendy over the weekend in central Japan left 18 persons dead, 26 missing and about 40 injured.

While Wendy diminished into a tropical storm and blew itself out in the Pacific Ocean, police reported the heavy downpour that followed left 12 dead and 25 missing in Shizuoka Prefecture alone. Thirty-one others were reported injured there.

The rains brought on floods that destroyed 175 houses in farm areas lining rivers, washed away 25 and inundated 3,800. Police said Japanese air defense force helicopters rescued about 1,000 residents in four small villages in Shizuoka and Gifu prefectures.

Congo Republic Hails Freedom

BRAZZAVILLE, Congo Republic (AP)—The Congo Republic, which lies across the Congo River from the strife-torn former Belgian Congo, became independent at midnight.

This capital city echoed to the thunder of a 101-gun salute which began booming at the stroke of 12.

The new nation is slightly smaller than the state of Montana and has a population of about 760,000—almost a third of whom live in Brazzaville.

The Congo Republic is the 11th of the 12th African members of the French community to receive its independence. Like the others it is expected to maintain commonwealth type ties with France. Mauretania, the one remaining semi-autonomous member of the community, will receive its independence in November.

Poison Kills Child Denied Medical Aid By Parents

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A baby girl died of poisoning Sunday—and her sobbing mother said she hesitated for hours before calling a doctor because of religious beliefs.

The doctor came Sunday morning—three hours after Lorelle Christine Kay, 21 months old, had died.

"Through our prayers we believed Lorelle would be all right," Ruth Jean Kay, 41, the mother, sobbed. "We didn't want to believe she was dead."

She said she and her husband are Christian Scientists.

Mrs. Kay told police she, her husband William, 42, and Lorelle were shopping in a plant nursery Saturday afternoon. Lorelle wandered off. A few seconds later she was seen drinking from a ceramic pot. Nearby was a large can of weed killer.

Mrs. Kay stuck a finger down the little girl's throat. Lorelle started vomiting. The family drove home and Lorelle was put to bed.

"As the time passed, we noticed she was becoming weaker," the mother said. "We felt if we prayed and meditated, she would be all right."

Several times the anxious parents phoned a Christian Science practitioner, Lewis Hubner, who prayed for the girl and tried to comfort the parents.

At 12:15 a.m., Lorelle said, "Night, night Mommy" and died. Her mother told police.

Israel, Argentina Well On Way To Settling Feud

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Some quiet talk in the corridors of the U.N. here and in the Foreign Ministry in Buenos Aires may lead soon to restoration of full diplomatic relations between Israel and Argentina.

The two countries clashed bitterly over the abduction from Argentina by Israel of Adolf Eichmann, former Nazi colonel accused by the Israelis as largely responsible for killing six million Jews during World War II.

Argentina appealed to the U.N. Security Council on charges that the Israelis violated Argentine sovereignty. Reparations were demanded—but never defined. The Security Council went along June 23 with the Argentine request to brand Israel's act illegal. Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir voiced an apology. Some said this would serve as reparations.

Apparently it didn't.

One month later Israeli Ambassador Arieh Levavi was declared diplomatically unwelcome and ordered to get out of Argentina.

Argentine Ambassador Rodolfo Garcia Arias previously had left Israel, recalled by his government.

But the embassies continued operating under charges d'affaires. Then Shabtai Rosenne, a Briton who became an Israeli citizen, serving as adviser to the Israeli Foreign Ministry, came back here for those quiet talks. He went from here to Buenos Aires for more talks with Argentine Foreign Ministry officials.

A recent communique published both in Buenos Aires and Jerusalem said both countries now regard the incident as closed. The unofficial word is that ambassadors will take up their respective posts within two months.

Congo Confused Land Of Baffled, New Officials

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The Congolese official beamed and warmly shook the hand of a Soviet correspondent.

"Long live the friendship between the Russian and the Congolese people," he exclaimed. "We shall both fight against Communism."

"But I am a Communist," protested the Russian.

A Communist, said the Congolese. "I thought you were from Russia."

The Congo of today in general is a confused country of baffled, newly named officials to whom administration continues to be a complicated mysterious machine.

It is a country of men who somewhere heard slogans and big names but there was no one around to explain them.

It is a state in which few administrative employees sat at a desk before Belgian officials fled.

It is a state in which one minister seldom knows what other ministers are doing and whose decrees frequently contradict the decrees of his colleagues issued the day before.

"New shoes?" said a Foreign Ministry official looking at a newspaperman's feet. "You bought them here," he stated firmly.

The reporter said yes, he bought the shoes in Leopoldville.

The official then named the store and the price. The reporter, surprised, asked how did he know.

"I know," the official said. "I sold shoes there before independence."

In a town in the Congo interior, a Belgian settler complained to the new police chief that his house had been looted. The police chief handed him a sheet of paper and asked him to write the complaint.

"Fine," the police chief said when the Belgian had finished. "One day we will have men here who will know how to write and they will study your case."

Searchers Comb Bay Area For Man's Body

CHESAPEAKE BEACH, Md. (AP)—Rescue workers searched unsuccessfully Sunday for the body of a Washington man who disappeared in Chesapeake Bay about a mile from the Calvert County shoreline.

Police said William Fields was fishing with three companions in a small boat about two miles south of here Sunday morning when he decided to go for a swim.

Fields began having some trouble in the water, police said, and one of the others in the boat made a futile effort to save him.

The Maryland Underwater Rescue Squad searched the area for several hours without finding the body.

Humorist Will Rogers Met Death 25 Years Ago

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Just 25 years ago Monday, an Alaskan plane crash took the life of a movie star Hollywood has never been able to replace.

Will Rogers, the cowboy humorist-philosopher, was killed with famed pilot, Wiley Post, near Barrow, Alaska, Aug. 15, 1935, when they crashed on a plane jaunt.

In his heyday, Rogers was a top box office star at the old Fox studio. No matter what the part called for, Rogers always played pretty much himself—and the fans loved him.

One old-time executive at Fox recalls: "Those were the good old days here. We had both Will and Shirley Temple on the lot then. We didn't need oil wells to show a profit."

"And surprisingly, neither one has ever been replaced."

A few years ago Warner Bros. put Rogers' life on the screen after an 11-year search for someone to play him. Chill Wills, Gary Cooper, Joel McCrea, Stu Erwin, Spencer Tracy, Jimmy Stewart—even Bing Crosby—were tested for the part.

The studio finally decided on a novice—Will Rogers Jr., former newspaper publisher and congressman, whose resemblance to his dad was remarkable.

The son is the first to admit that there was only one Will Rogers—and slim prospects of another.

Many of Rogers' movies are favorites on TV's Late, Late Show— "Judge Priest," Steamboat Round the Bend" and others. They still hold up.

His quips are as pertinent today as when first uttered. At the recent Democratic National Convention, one speaker used a Rogers' quote: "I belong to no organized party. I'm a Democrat."

Ike Delays Return Trip To Capital

THURMONT, Md. (UPI)—President Eisenhower drove through a drizzle to church Sunday, only to find the services had been called off.

He also postponed his return to Washington, originally scheduled late Sunday, until Monday morning.

Three Suspects Held In Slaying

BALTIMORE (AP)—Police arrested three youths Sunday for questioning in the slaying of a 49-year-old unemployed father of five children.

The three Negro suspects were picked up a few hours after Frank Creamer was found unconscious in a pool of blood on a Pennsylvania Railroad bridge in Southwest Baltimore.

Creamer was pronounced dead at St. Agnes Hospital. Police said the victim had received fractures of the skull, nose and jaw, brain injuries, lacerations of the head and a stomach injury.

Police and the victim's sister, Mrs. Doris Chambers, said Creamer was looking for work as a part time bartender at the time of the attack. His body was found between a bar where he had stopped for a drink and another tavern where he had said he planned to go later.

Police said his body was found with the pockets turned out and a wallet and watch his family believed he had been carrying were missing.

Hoffberger Heads Md. Kennedy Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—Jerrold C. Hoffberger, Baltimore businessman and sportsman, has been named Maryland chairman of the Citizens for Kennedy and Johnson Committee.

The 41-year-old Hoffberger, who lives in Ridderwood, Baltimore County, will head the state organization from Baltimore. Committees will be established in various Maryland counties and towns.

The appointment of Hoffberger was announced Saturday in Washington by the national headquarters for the group backing Sen. John F. Kennedy and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson as the Democratic candidates for president and vice president.

The announcement said the organization is "for Republicans, independents and Democrats who wish to take an active part in the Democratic campaign for the presidency, but who are not active in the regular Democratic party organizations."

2 Deaths Mar State Highway Safety Drive

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After an ominous beginning, the annual "Deathless Weekend" traffic safety program lived up to its name on Maryland highways and streets.

Despite rain-slicked roads at times, only two deaths were reported from midnight Friday through most of Sunday evening. Both deaths occurred within a few hours after the start of the weekend.

They boosted Maryland's highway death toll for the year to 317 compared with 307 over a comparable period last year.

The latest victims were: Donald M. Brittain, 40, of Annapolis, whose car went off Maryland 450 in Anne Arundel County and struck a tree.

Robert Allen Dausser, 25, of Baltimore, whose car collided with the rear of a truck on a Baltimore street.

"Deathless Weekend", sponsored by the Maryland D.C. Broadcasters Assn., was proclaimed a state-wide safety observance by Gov. Tawes. The observance ends at midnight Sunday.

Planes Ferry Tourists Home

LONDON (AP)—Scores of American tourists from strike-bound liners in British ports were ferried home by plane Sunday, steadily reducing the number of stranded passengers trying to get back across the Atlantic.

But there was no sign of a major break in the unofficial strike of seamen demanding more pay—now in its fifth day. The strikers were determined to prevent sailings of big vessels.

The next test may be the liner Queen Elizabeth, due in Southampton from New York Monday. Strikers were laying plans to prevent her return voyage. Her sister ship, the Queen Mary, is already laid up in Southampton—and stopping both "Queens" would be a prestige success for the strikers.

But some order was growing out of the original confusion, and overburdened airlines and specially chartered aircraft were giving lifts to hundreds of travelers.

Travelers still delayed were using the Queen Mary and the Empress of Britain as floating hotels, but the Cunard Line said all will be cleared from the Queen Mary Monday.

Many ships were sailing, some with reduced crews, and the stoppage was far from complete.

Funeral Service Held For Sara Roosevelt

HYDE PARK N. Y. (UPI)—A simple 30-minute funeral service was held Sunday for Sara Delano Roosevelt, 13, granddaughter of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

About 50 members of the Roosevelt family, including Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Sara's 75-year-old grandmother, attended the services and burial.

Shortly after Mrs. Roosevelt arrived at the church, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., and his family arrived in a car as did Anna Roosevelt, a daughter of the late president.

Sara, known as Sally to her relatives and friends, died late Friday of a sub-dural brain hemorrhage, the probable result of a fall from a horse a day before.

The girl, daughter of New York investment broker John Roosevelt, and Ann Roosevelt, died in an ambulance shortly after she collapsed while mountain climbing near Utica with a group of girls from the Adirondack summer camp she was attending.

It Was Close But Town Gets Its Gambling Casino

CARRY-LE-ROUET, France, (AP)—This little Mediterranean port has a $200,000 gambling casino now, but it was a near thing.

Two years ago police told the mayor the casino probably never would be allowed to open because it was only 153 feet from the police station, door to door.

"In towns of over 1,000 inhabitants a bar or a casino cannot open within 450 feet of the nearest school, church, or police station, door to door," the police told the mayor, quoting the law.

The town council met.

"Let's move the police station," suggested the mayor.

"Impossible," replied a councillor.

"Let's evict the police," the mayor said.

"Impossible," replied a second councillor.

"Let's not renew the lease," said the mayor.

"Fine," said a third councillor, "but it runs five years and we can't wait that long."

"I've got it," said a fourth councillor. "Let's put the front door at the back of the building."

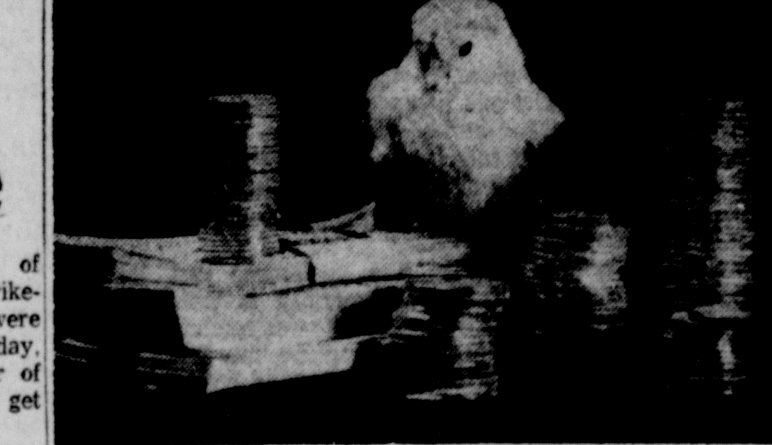

So the front door of the police station gave way to a bay window and the rear door became the front door—543 feet from the casino.

Prince Georges Blonde Chosen Miss Maryland

SALISBURY (AP) — A 19-year-old Prince Georges County beauty with blonde hair and blue-green eyes will represent Maryland at the Miss America pageant in Atlantic City next month.

Robin Carole Davis of Hyattsville was chosen over six other contestants last night in the Miss Maryland pageant held at Salisbury State Teachers College.

Robin, a 1959 graduate of Northwestern High School, stands 5 feet 6½ inches, weighs 125, measures 35-23-36 and excels in singing and dancing. Her other hobbies are modeling, sports and writing short stories.

She sang "I Can't Say No" from the musical comedy "Oklahoma" in winning the Miss Maryland title. She was runner-up in the Miss District of Columbia contest last year and has won a number of other contests.

Another Washington area blonde, Elaine Marie Downs of Silver Spring, was runner-up to Miss Davis. Miss Downs, 19, is a student at the University of Maryland, a tap dancer with nine years training, stands 5-6½, weighs 116, and measures 34-24-35.

Third place went to Doris Marie Diem of Joppa, a 5-7 brunette who represented Harford County and whose hobbies are dancing and sewing. Miss Diem impressed the judges and audience of some 1,000 with a display of mannishness dressed in clothes which she had made.

The seven contestants chose Judith Maria Meredith of Cambridge, a 20-year-old junior at Western Maryland College, as "Miss Congeniality."

The other entries were Beverly Lorraine Marsh of Dundalk, Miss Baltimore County; Carolyn Ann Coghil of Salisbury, Miss Eastern Shore; and Carol Brown of Hagerstown, Miss Hagerstown.

Lynda Lee Mead, Miss America of 1960, crowned the new Miss Maryland. Disc jockey Dick Clark of Philadelphia was among the judges.

C&O Vote Planned On Bid To B&O

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway said Sunday it is calling a special meeting of shareholders for Sept. 14 to approve affiliation and eventual merger with the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The meeting, to be held in Cleveland, will vote on the exchange offer to B&O shareowners made by C&O June 14.

Walter J. Tuohy, C&O president, in a letter to shareholders announcing the meeting, said: "If the plan had been in effect last year, 1959 earnings per C&O common share would have been greater."

"Substantial economies can, in the opinion of C&O management, be effected and the net income increased through coordinated operation under common control. When a merger of the two properties becomes feasible still greater benefits should result."

In a proxy statement mailed to shareholders, C&O pointed out that "upon consummation of the exchange offer all exchanging holders of B&O common stock will, in the basis of present dividend rates, receive a 50 per cent increase in current dividend return."

The New York Central also has made a merger offer to B&O. The latter's shareowners are considering both offers. The C&O has offered one common share for 1½ B&O common shares, plus one common share for each B&O preferred share. The Central has offered 1½ common shares plus a cash payment of $2 for each B&O common stock.

Hopkins Tuition Fees Increased

BALTIMORE (AP) — Tuition fees at Johns Hopkins University will be increased $250 a year beginning with the fall term in 1961, the school announced Sunday.

The increase will make tuition $1,450 a year in all schools of the university including the School of Advanced International Studies at Washington.

P. Sewart Macaulay, executive vice president, said the increase was made necessary by rising costs and priority attention being given to lifting the level of faculty salaries.

The current $1,200 annual tuition fee, set by a $200 increase last year, will remain in effect for the coming academic year.

Justice Dept. Rules Out Gasoline Probe

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Department of Justice has turned down a Baltimore councilman's request for an investigation of gasoline prices in Baltimore.

Robert A. Bicks, assistant attorney general, wrote Councilman Leon A. Rubenstein over the weekend that there is no "apparent basis" for a federal investigation.

Bicks said the department needs evidence of price-fixing agreements in order to carry out anti-trust prosecutions. He suggested part of Rubenstein's complaint that Baltimore motorists are "overcharged" for gasoline might be investigated by the Federal Trade Commission.

Body Recovered

WILLIAMSPORT, Md. (AP) — The body of an apparent suicide victim, 33-year-old Earl E. Messner of Hagerstown, was recovered Saturday from a creek near Williamsport. Messner, whose body was found in the creek by a fisherman, apparently died of self-inflicted knife wounds, state police said.

School Finance Plan Appears Dead Until '62

BALTIMORE (AP) — A plan to overhaul the Maryland school financing structure seems dead until 1962 at least.

The State Board of Education has proposed that the state pay a larger share of education costs. Its plan would boost state contributions from a present average of about 42 per cent to 50 per cent.

But Sen. William S. James, chairman of the Legislative Council's Committee on Taxation and Fiscal Matters, said over the weekend any recommendations from his group to the 1961 Legislature will be within the present framework of the law.

Earlier Harry J. Green, head of a governor's commission of school financing, said his group won't be able to complete its studies in time for the 1960 legislative session.

James said he has told education officials the Green Commission will deal with any long-range change in the program. He said any proposals made by his group, such as a teacher pay raise, would be financed by the present formula.

A spokesman for school teachers, who are seeking increased state aid totaling 13 million dollars, indicated it would make little difference to them what form the aid came in, just so they can get pay raises.

The South turns out three-fourths of the textiles in the United States.

Regular Work Routines Slated At State Prisons

BALTIMORE (AP) — Regular work schedule routines are expected to be carried on Monday at the three Maryland prisons troubled last week by strikes and unrest.

Prison authorities said over the weekend only about 15 inmates at the Penitentiary in Baltimore still refused to return to work. They have been separated from the other inmates.

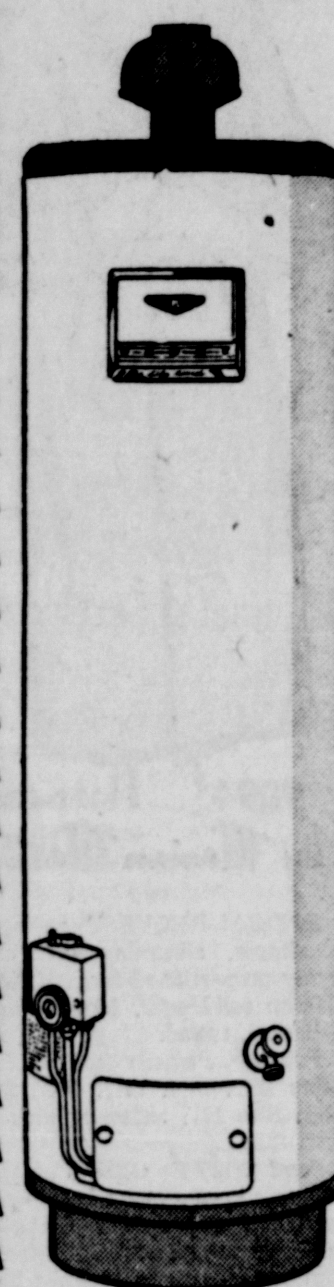

Prisoners at the House of Correction at Jessup and the Reformatory for Males near Hagerstown returned to normal schedules last week, but Monday will be the first normal schedule at the Penitentiary in a week.

Maximum security regulations were ordered at the three prisons early last week to avoid any violence in the wake of a Board of Correction order rescinding special parole privileges.

No fashions are smarter and more practical than the new campus clothes.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The New College Clothes - Coordinated, Flexible

The campus crowd is reaching dressed envelope sent to me, JRP, as fast as it can for exactly what a nation-wide poll of school girls told the designers last April that they would be wanting this fall.

Playing center position is a suit that travels, goes to town, to the big game and doubles for campus wear. It is so simple in design that it can be dressed up or down for the occasion and so softly tailored that it will defy all fads now and four years from now. Cut in a monotone or small patterned tweed or flannel, it is fashioned into a straight skirt and fitted or belted jacket.

Sneaking around left end for importance are the separates. Just as you planned them, the skirts hang straight with a kick pleat or flare for ease. Belts are a regular attachment and pockets are concealed to avoid bulk under sweaters.

For wear with these are tuck-in type sweaters with a classic finish and jersey blouses with the new bowed or scooped-out necklines. As toppers there are "little boy" jackets, blazers or wesuits in fabrics that match or contrast with the skirts. And there are tempting possibilities in dyed-to-match and coordinate separates. Any way you team them, you'll find yourself with an amazingly flexible work-a-day wardrobe.

For weekends, there are an impressive number of combinations to be created from one velveteen or taffeta skirt with a change of evening sweaters and luxurious blouses — and one of those brand new tartan "smoking" jackets worn with matching cummerbund and casual nonchalance.

Since casualness is what the girls ordered in everything, even the off-campus dresses are uncluttered in light-weight jersey, knits and cottons in shirtwaist and jumper styles.

And to show how smart in the head as well as in looks these girls are, there's a warm, fleecy great coat hanging plumb or snugly belted in a color that, through judicious "scheming" is companionable to an entire wardrobe.

But make sure that you scheme in the most flattering-to-you fashion — a wrong color for your skin and hair can make even the best-planned wardrobe look chancy. "Your Color Type" will help you select your most flattering range of shades. This simple, wardrobe-boosting aid is yours for just 10¢ and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"Kick-Off" Meeting Is Scheduled Then

FROSTBURG — During the summer of 1962, the City of Frostburg will celebrate its sesquicentennial or 150th birthday.

The time and place of the meeting will be announced through the newspapers some time this week.

The council has asked all organizations to cooperate as this is "a once in a life-time" opportunity for the citizens of the community to participate in such a celebration.

Randolph Urges Fast Report On Coal Research

Congressional Act Effective July 7

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.) has called for a progress report on establishment of a federal coal research and development program by the Secretary of the Interior.

The agency, set up under a congressional statute enacted July 7, was cited by Randolph as "an instrumentality capable of being of very real benefit to the coal industry."

Randolph, in a letter to Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton, said the act called for implementation and administration of the program under Seaton's direction. He said a progress report before the proposed early September adjournment of Congress would be welcomed.

The letter also pointed out West Virginia was the nation's No. 1 coal producing state, and as such, should be given high priority in any development program formulated.

Randolph noted that a United States Bureau of Mines laboratory already is functioning at Morgantown and he said in cooperation with West Virginia University parts of the new coal research and development program could easily be allocated to the lab and university.

"New uses and new markets for our coal are imperative as part of the requirements for a healthy industry so vital to the national security, and as a means of alleviating the distressing surplus of chronic unemployment in West Virginia and other coal-producing states," Randolph wrote. "We look with great hope to the Office of Coal Research and Development within the Department of Interior as an ultimate means to the end of finding new uses and new markets for coal and more jobs for coal mines."

Randolph also called for establishment of a field research station in southern West Virginia's bituminous coal mining area and suggested the new United States Bureau of Mines facility at Mt. Hope.

He said in this area the supply of coal and production and research technicians is more than adequate.

Underwood Slaps Demos For Blast

Lawrence Leaves Pa. For His Talk

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Gov. Cecil H. Underwood took a slap at the Democrats Sunday night for criticizing his out-of-state trips during his administration.

"I am surprised that the very party which objects to me, a Republican governor, ever stepping foot out of West Virginia, would have the gall to take a Democrat governor away from his office and his state to speak at their convention," Underwood said. "I hope that Pennsylvania will not irreparably suffer from the Democrat-invited absence of its governor."

Underwood made the reference to Pennsylvania Gov. David L. Lawrence, Democratic State Convention banquet speaker here Friday night, in a statement saying he had "read with both pleasure and disappointment" the results of the Democratic convention.

Attacking Democratic gubernatorial nominee W. W. Barron, Underwood said the attorney general "also objects to my successful efforts to acquire job-producing industries for West Virginia."

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 29, and must have some kind of a record for lousy luck with men. When I was 19 I fell for a phony who strung me for three years always promising to divorce his wife, but never making good the promise. Then he suddenly quit me.

The next guy was married — only his wife was in a mental institution HE SAID. It turned out she worked as a supervisor in the kitchen there, and he was using it as an excuse.

The next man was my brother-in-law, and the less said about this one the better. I was a sap and my sister doesn't speak to me to this day.

In May I fell in love with the chiropractor who adjusted my back. His wife called me on the phone last week and threatened me.

Why do I have such terrible luck with men, Ann? Please tell me what kind of a husband to look for.—NUMBER 13

DEAR NUMBER 13: Quit looking for husbands and concentrate on the single men. Your luck may improve.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The man I married is a perfectionist. He is giving our 10-year-old son such a complex I'm afraid the child will be afraid to breathe if his father doesn't stop criticizing him.

He tells the boy he does everything sloppy or wrong — never a word of praise. It's always picking, ordering or shouting. He is constantly comparing Don with others in his crowd who do better. Such phrases as "I'm ashamed of you", or "you're disgracing me" are common in our home.

It tears my heart out to see the hurt look in the boy's eyes when he says, "You're a dumb kid who will never amount to anything unless you change your ways."

Don has repeatedly asked me why his father hates him. I tell the boy his father loves him, but he has high standards and is hard to please.

Please tell me what to say to my husband. He has no idea what he's doing to his son.—WORRIED MOTHER

DEAR WORRIED: Tell your husband if he doesn't lay off, his son will crawl into a private world and slam the door shut for good.

Children who are made to feel they aren't "good enough" eventually refuse to compete because they've been told so often that they're dumb, lazy, stupid and can't make the grade.

Tell your husband this world has a long list of successful men whose sons withdrew from life and failed. More often than not it's because their fathers beat them down and destroyed their self-confidence when they should have been given praise and encouragement.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a girl 11 who wanted to be nice to a boy in our neighborhood who is not very well liked. My mother told me he needed somebody to be kind to him so I decided to be the one.

I really feel sorry for Norbert but I can barely stand him myself. He brags all the time and is a pest. He comes to my house every day and calls on the telephone just to talk.

Yesterday he came over at ten in the morning and invited himself to stay for lunch. Then he tagged along with my girl friend.

and me when we went to the movies.

How can I get rid of him without being mean?—PESTERED

DEAR PESTERED: I think it's wonderful of you to befriend Norbert but he's taking advantage of your kindness. Ask him to call you before he comes over, and don't be bashful about letting him know you have other plans.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teen-agers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠ A Q 7 9 6 3 ♦ 7 5 3 2 ♣ J 6 3

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♥ 1 ♠
2 ♥ 1 ♠
3 ♥ 1 ♠

What do you bid?
A.—A bid of one no trump at this point indicates a hand which contains 15 to 17 points in high cards. While you have a spade stopper, your point count is considerably under the minimum for a free bid of one no trump. Therefore, the proper procedure is to pass.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠ A 9 2 ♥ K J 8 ♦ K 10 9 8 4 ♣ 6 2

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♥ 2 ♦
2 ♥ 2 ♦
3 ♥ 2 ♦

What do you bid now?
A.—Some mild effort at a slam should be made. A mere raise to four hearts would not be altogether adequate, and we suggest a temporary bid of a club in third position, since you need not prepare for a rebid.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠ 9 7 6 5 3 ♥ A J 10 ♦ Q 9 3 ♣ K 10

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♦ Pass
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
2 NT Pass 3 ♠ Pass
3 ♦ Pass 4 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Five clubs. Partner evidently has six clubs and five diamonds, because he still persisted with clubs after you supported diamonds. Since partner disliked no trump, he very likely is quite short in spades, and there should be game in the minor suit. You have three very important key cards.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠ Q 8 2 ♥ K 9 8 5 4 2 ♣ A K 9 2

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♥ 1 ♠
2 ♥ 1 ♠
3 ♥ 1 ♠

What do you bid now?
A.—Here these are an evident misfit, and for that very reason some discount point count values must be taken. Make an exception to the general rule and pass in this case. You might possibly miss a game. But on most holdings that North is likely to have, game will be hopeless or the play for it negligible.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♥ K Q 9 4 ♦ K 10 9 8 6 ♣ Q J 9 5

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass 1 ♠ Double Redouble

What action do you take?
A.—This hand has enormous possibilities offensively. It contains 11 points in high cards, and with the addition of distributional values is worth 14 points so there should be no doubt in your mind as to desirability of reaching a game contract. The best way to announce this is by a cue bid of the adverse suit. The recommended call, therefore, is two spades, asking partner to select the suit and announcing that you are prepared for any suit he chooses.

Q. 6—Both sides have 60 part scores. You are South and hold:
♠ K J 8 6 5 ♥ A K 7 4 2 ♦ A 10 9 3

The bidding has proceeded:
East South
1 ♦ 1 ♠

What do you bid?
A.—Since a fight may be anticipated you should arrange to mention both suits if it becomes expedient to do so, and the proper way to plan this is by a mere overcall of one spade. Something is bound to happen around the table on the first round, and you should have a chance to mention the heart suit at a reasonably low level.

Kelly Workers Will Continue Work Stoppage

Wage Negotiations To Resume Today

Members of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union, AFL-CIO, yesterday afternoon voted to continue a strike at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company while continuing negotiations toward a wage settlement.

Members of the 1,800-member local walked out of the Kelly plant Friday at midnight in a dispute over a wage increase being negotiated under terms of a contract reopening clause.

Alva C. Lewis, president of the Kelly local said up to 900 members of the union voted unanimously yesterday to continue the strike.

The meeting, held on the first floor of the Eagles home here, was termed the best attended in a number of years.

Continue Talking
The vote to continue the strike came after the union's wage committee reported on the status of the wage talks which began here early in July.

By mutual agreement, representatives of the company and the union will resume negotiations today at 10 a.m.

A negotiating session was held Saturday after the strike began. Local 26 began taking a strike vote last Saturday after its wage committee gave a report of the talks. The vote was completed Wednesday morning.

Mr. Lewis said 1,107 voted for and 91 against authorizing the committee to call a strike.

Union officials said it was the first legal strike held at the plant in about 15 years. There have been several brief and unauthorized work stoppages which had little effect upon tire production.

Company Notified
A Kelly spokesman said the company had been notified that the membership had rejected the proposal and voted to continue the strike, and said the negotiations will continue today.

Both the company and union declined to discuss issues which led to the strike.

Wage talks began in earnest here recently after members of the rubber industry's Big Four reached wage agreements which included a 9 1/2-cent general wage increase, plus a 5 1/2-cent adjustment for skilled workers.

Mr. Lewis said last night Local 26 has no plans for a membership meeting until the committee has something to take back to the members.

Garden Club Will Beautify Park Area Here

Dwarf iris and hybrid daylilies will be used by the Garden Club of Cumberland to beautify a city park area at the intersection of Maryland Avenue and Williams Street, according to Street Commissioner John J. Long.

The flowers will be planted this fall by the civic beautification committee of the Garden Club.

Mrs. Robert L. Horstman, co-chairman of the committee, recently wrote Mr. Long that the survey conducted by the club to select a suitable flower for civic beautification indicated that the iris and the daylily would best serve.

She said the Garden Club would like permission to supply and plant dwarf iris and hybrid daylilies in the area.

The daylilies, Mrs. Horstman said, will be 30 inches or less high and will bloom from June until frost. The dwarf iris, she added, would serve as a border along the lower edge and will bloom during May.

Once the area is established with these plants, the club said, no other plantings or maintenance, except for weeding, need be done for four or five years.

In accepting the offer, Mr. Long said it was very encouraging to see the cooperation the Garden Club is showing toward beautification of the City of Cumberland. He commended the club and assured it of city cooperation if any help is needed.

Walsh Recounts Last Visit To Brother's Cell

Finds Bishop Well And In Good Spirits

By ROY ESSOYAN
HONG KONG (AP) — "We will meet in heaven."

These were Bishop James E. Walsh's last words to his brother William before they parted—possibly for the last time—in a Chinese Communist prison in Shanghai last week.

William C. Walsh, 70, a Cumberland, Md., attorney, arrived in Hong Kong Sunday after spending two weeks in Red China during which he saw his brother, a Roman Catholic bishop, on three closely supervised occasions.

Their parting last Thursday, he said, was emotional.

He told a news conference he asked his brother if he wanted him to plead to the Chinese Communist government for the bishop's early release or pardon. "Future In God's Hands"

He quoted the bishop as replying: "No one likes to be confined but I am not unhappy. I leave my future completely in God's hands." The bishop, is serving a 20-year term on Communist charges of espionage.

"I told him because of our ages and distances involved we might not be able to see each other again," the former judge told reporters a few hours after he crossed the Communist border into Hong Kong.

The bishop's reply was: "We will meet in heaven."

Quietly Walsh added: "My brother was rather emotional at this point."

He said the bishop had told him the visit was one of the greatest human consolations he had ever received.

Bishop Walsh, former father general of the Maryknoll Order of priests at Ossining, N.Y., went to China first in 1918. Thirty years later he returned to China as bishop. Placed under house arrest in 1961, he subsequently refused repatriation on the ground "my work is here in Shanghai."

In Good Spirits
Walsh, former Maryland attorney general, said the bishop generally was in good spirits but appeared to have lost weight. The bishop told him he received adequate but plain food three times a day and three or four cigarettes daily. Chinese Communist officials allowed Walsh to give his brother a box of cigars, some cookies, clothing and candy. But they refused to let him hand over a golden rosary he brought from Mount St. Mary School in Emmitsburg, Md., from which he was graduated.

Prison officials refused to permit Walsh to give the bishop a note from friends in Cumberland, which simply read: "Dear Bishop—best wishes."

Communist officials said in explanation there was no "bishop" in prison there. The bishop said he had received only two letters from home in 22 months. His brother said regular letters had been written.

"I have no way of knowing whether my brother has been brainwashed or not," Walsh said in answer to a reporter's question. He said his brother has not said Mass since his arrest 22 months ago.

Tantalizing Game
Prison authorities allowed Walsh to give his brother two photographs of the judge's grandchildren. He described what appeared to be a tantalizing game prison officials were playing with his brother.

Last week he said they asked him if he would like a front room in the prison block, plus a radio with which he could while away time. The following day they informed him all rooms and radios were taken.

Over $1,000 Recovered From Tavern Theft

The Police Department yesterday marked closed the theft of some $1,085 from a West Side tavern Saturday after Detective Thomas J. See recovered all but $3 of the loot.

The money, police were told, was taken shortly after the Ritter Tavern on Paca Street opened for business Saturday.

Detective See was told the money was in a cash box in a table back of the bar, and that the large sum was on hand so checks could be cashed for customers.

About three hours after the theft was reported, Detective See picked up Alfred Thomas Imler, 52, of 221 South Spruce Street, and held him for questioning.

Money Recovered
He said the man at first denied knowledge of the missing money but upon being questioned yesterday, admitted taking it.

Later Mr. See recovered $1,082 of the money, in bills ranging from $1 to $20, under the roof of a coal shed adjoining the man's home.

Detective See said Imler will be taken to the state's attorney's office today.

Imler, police said, was working in the tavern, icing beer, when the money was taken.

Store Is Entered
An intruder broke into Burgess Inc., 26 Baltimore Street, over the weekend.

He missed about $1,000 which was stored in a drawer in the store, police said.

Detective See said nothing was taken by the intruder or intruders who ransacked the store after knocking a hole in the ceiling of a washroom.

Joseph Blubaugh informed police Saturday that $40 was taken from his wife's purse while he was away from his apartment at 224 Harrison Street for a short period. Blubaugh told police the money was in a purse on the kitchen table, and the loss was discovered shortly after his return home.

He asked that every member bring a non-member to the meeting.

Two Nurse Trainees Are Promoted Here

Mrs. Betty Lepley and Mrs. Marie Fromhart, after several months of in-service training and public nursing experience, have been promoted to public health nurses, according to the current newsletter of the Allegany County Health Department.

The department now has one senior public health nurse, 10 field nurses and one public health nurse trainee, the bulletin said.

Then an hour later at 6:05 a.m., while state police were working to clear up the first two mishaps, a car driven by Irene Glackin, 52, of Hyattsville, Md., crashed into the rear of Ozzie Beverly's vehicle, causing additional damage to the Virginia car.

The station wagon driven by the Maryland woman bounced off the Beverly car and smashed into a parked tractor-trailer truck on the opposite side of the highway. Considerable damage was done to the truck and the Maryland vehicle was demolished, police said.

A passenger in the station wagon, Thomas Burke of Hyattsville, was treated for cuts and bruises of the right leg and ankle. Mrs. Glackin was arrested and fined.

Police said Benjamin Johnson of Ohio, driver of the tractor-trailer truck, was not in the parked vehicle and escaped injury.

Traffic was slowed on the highway for several hours until the wreckage was cleared up.

Police said the cause of the flash fire is not known, but added that cardboard placed on the floor of the garage apparently absorbed much of the spilled gasoline and its fumes to keep it from exploding, and badly burning the Godsey boy. Fourteen firemen answered the 12:25 p.m. alarm.

Official opening of the fair is scheduled for 8 o'clock tonight. At that moment the new 50-star United States flag will be raised by the color guard of the Marine Reserve while Charles I. Six Playground Projects To Be Exhibited At Fair

Recreation on the city's playgrounds is not all running and frolicking. Results of projects designed to keep youngsters of playground age (6 to 18) occupied and happy during the summer months will be exhibited at this week's Cumberland Fair which opens today.

The works of six playground clubs will be depicted, according to City Recreation Director Eugene Mason. It will be the fourth straight year for the undertaking under the leadership of Mrs. Eva Hogan, assistant recreation director.

For instance, the reports on playground activities will be noted with a newspaper club which publishes a weekly mimeographed sheet. Heading this project are Jean Beckward, director of Pine Avenue Playground, and Sara Murphy, Ridgedale.

The music club will display instruments made on the playgrounds such as tambourines, bongos, drums, flutes and shakers. Carol Dunlap, Mapleside director, and Mary Ethel Knierim, North End, are in charge.

Mrs. Maxine Zehrbach, Johnson Heights director, is scheduled to explain the purpose of the teen club which sponsors activities like hay rides, splash parties, dances, etc.

Animal care will be explained by Denny Knippenberg, West Side, who is in charge of the pet club. Literature from the Allegany County Animal Welfare Society will also be distributed.

The poster club for those artistically inclined makes posters for various playground displays, some of which will be on display at the Rec Department exhibit. Arlene Davis, Gephart director, is in charge of this project.

Mrs. Margaret Buzzard, Centre Street, and Mrs. Vera Twigg, Virginia Avenue, head the flower club. Flowers from the local Jaycees' show will be on display.

Four Injured In Crash Near Breezewood

Four members of a Baltimore family were admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital yesterday following a one-car accident on Route 126 about three miles south of Breezewood, Pa.

Reported in "satisfactory" condition at the hospital are Robert T. Ramsay, 49, of 2933 East Monument Street, Baltimore; his wife, Mrs. Mildred Ramsay, 41; and their children, Elizabeth, 15, and Barry, 9.

State Police said Mrs. Ramsay was the most seriously injured, suffering from shock, multiple lacerations of the face, and a compound fracture and dislocation of the right wrist.

Her husband sustained cuts and bruises of the left forearm, left leg and the side of his head. The daughter had cuts about her right knee and bruises of the right arm. The nine-year-old boy had abrasions of the left knee and body.

Investigating officers said the Ramsay automobile, operated by the father, was traveling north on Route 126 about 8 o'clock yesterday morning when the vehicle left the road, hit the berm on the right side of the highway, struck an embankment, spun around and crashed into a rock ledge. More than $1,600 damage was done to their late model coupe.

Pennsylvania State Police also reported a "chain-reaction" type accident Saturday morning, involving seven automobiles near Breezewood on Route 126. It was raining, police said, and the road was wet and slippery.

Four persons were slightly injured and more than $4,200 damage to the vehicles was reported in three separate crashes at the scene, about one mile from Breezewood. Four of the drivers involved were arrested, pleaded guilty to driving too fast for existing highway conditions, and were fined $15 each by Justice of the Peace Grant Swartzwelder of Breezewood.

Police said the first accident occurred about 4:55 a.m. Saturday when a car driven by Eli Cleve Butler, 47, of Herndon, Va., was struck in the rear by another vehicle operated by Roy Wolfe, 40, of Falls Church, Va. A third car operated by Ozzie Beverly, 38, Richmond, Va., then hit the Wolfe automobile from the rear.

The driver, his wife Esther Beverly, and their son Ozzie Beverly Jr., were treated for cuts about the head, face and legs, police stated. Both Wolfe and Beverly were arrested for driving too fast on a wet highway.

Approximately 10 minutes later a car driven by John Mitchell, Philadelphia, stopped because the highway was blocked by the first crash. His car was struck in the rear by another operated by Thomas E. Johnson, Richmond, Va. Johnson was charged with operating his car too fast on the wet roadway.

Then an hour later at 6:05 a.m., while state police were working to clear up the first two mishaps, a car driven by Irene Glackin, 52, of Hyattsville, Md., crashed into the rear of Ozzie Beverly's vehicle, causing additional damage to the Virginia car.

Weather Gives Fair Officials Biggest Worry

Exposition Opens At Fairgo Today

Weather appeared to be the big worry as officials of the Cumberland Fair Association got ready for the opening of the 43rd Cumberland Fair today at Fairgo, where the annual exposition continues through Saturday.

There was some rain in the area yesterday morning and the weather man was not very encouraging about today. He said there is a prospect of scattered thunderstorms again today.

Harry J. Barton, general manager of the fair, is hoping that the usual good luck will prevail from a weather standpoint all this week. Generally, the weather turns hot and dry for this special week on the calendar each August, and Mr. Barton hopes that tradition prevails again in 1960.

Judging Tomorrow
Some 1,300 exhibits will be put in their proper places by 5 p.m. today so they can be judged tomorrow and the ribbons distributed.

Official opening of the fair is scheduled for 8 o'clock tonight. At that moment the new 50-star United States flag will be raised by the color guard of the Marine Reserve while Charles I. SRC Committee To Investigate Route 219 Job

A section of U.S. Route 219 in nearby Garrett County will be one of the first highways to come under the investigation of a new State Roads Commission staff committee on road design.

John B. Funk, chairman-director of State Roads Commission, announced over the weekend that it will be the duty of the committee to review all specifications and design of proposed highway construction not only in relation to its location but also the traffic loads it will be expected to carry.

Mr. Funk said the committee will consist of the chief engineer, the chief of the Bureau of Traffic, chief of the testing laboratory, construction and maintenance engineers, research engineers and the district engineer in whose area the construction is proposed.

The SRC chairman-director emphasized that the need for such a committee, with particular emphasis on traffic expectations, was dramatized when a section of U.S. Route 219 between Oakland and Red House in Garrett County was discovered to be inadequate to carry the heavy loads it attracted. This section was built according to specifications for a contract that was awarded in 1958.

"New highways attract usage in volumes over and above increases that might normally be expected," Mr. Funk said. "In addition, new highways often attract substantial increases in truck traffic and other heavy vehicular movement of the type the route would not carry unless a new facility were built."

"These traffic factors must be given careful attention in design of new highways. They can have a telling effect on the thickness of the base course or the surfacing. Closer attention must be given to these factors than apparently has been given in the past," he added.
